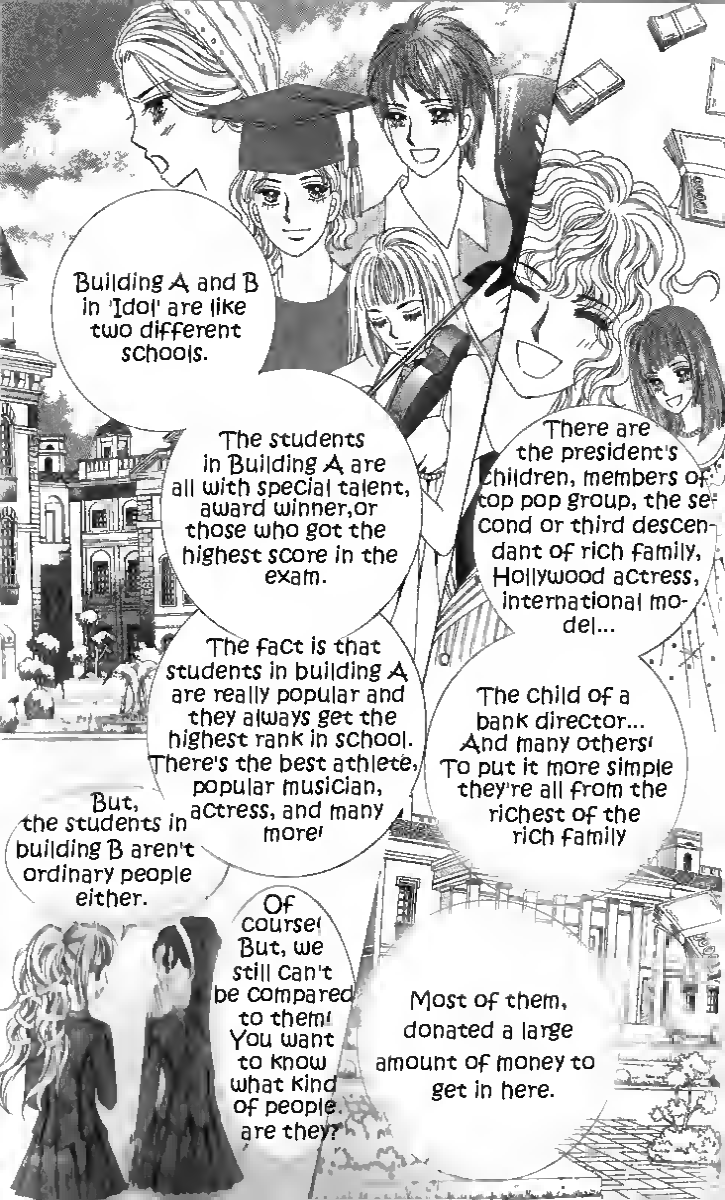
Mr. Leo said that there's two building here, A and B. What does the building's A looks like?
It looks like the building's B. There's classrooms, teachers, and students.
Ah!
My shoelace is untie..
Oh, so it's only about class division?
That's not all. Hmm... It's a little embarassing to say it, but actually building's B is not at the same level as building's A.
Level?
Yes, level.
You can say it like, Building's A is in the first row, while ours is in the fifth row.
There's a huge difference.



Building A and B in 'Idol' are like two different schools.
The students in Building A are all with special talent, award winner,or those who got the highest score in the exam.
There are the president's children, members of top pop group, the second or third descendant of rich family, Hollywood actress, international model...
The fact is that students in building A are really popular and they always get the highest rank in school. There's the best athlete, popular musician, actress, and many more!
The child of a bank director... And many others! To put it more simple they're all from the richest of the rich family
But, the students in building B aren't ordinary people either.
Of course! But, we still can't be compared to them! You want to know what kind of people are they?
Most of them, donated a large amount of money to get in here.

I never knew that.
But it seems unfair. I mean, they might be starting a fight or something.
By looking the building you could already now.
Students in building A are the higher up ranks. While we're the troublemaker The relationship isn't good.
Even though Ian is from building A, but he's really popular in building B!

Are you guys really that close?
Oh?

We are sibling in the official document. But I was joking just now. No one's going to fall for that, right?
What if they did?
Is that so?
Hahaha.... I'm only joking!
Hit
Do you need to hit me for that?
Uwaa!! That's Ian!

Ahaha!
I don't know.
...

You're really unique.
Thank you, if that's a compliment. Oh yeah, is my brother that famous?
Of course! Remember what I said about the highest rank in "Idol" is in building A? Ian is the one! And he's the school president too!
You don't know?
Oh?
Of course, I do!
I don't know Oppa never mention it at all
There are 3 things that he excel in, great background, handsome face, and smartness
Even though, every human has their weak point. But all of his weak point seems not visible

Translator & Editor Note

I just want to fix something here. First of all, in the first chapter I put Lang Land Freeman, however the correct name is Lang Lang Freeman. From this chapter on, I will be using Lang Lang instead of Lang Land ^^

Next up, I'm sorry for the bad quality of the page. I have a hard time scanning it, and the raw that I recently found in Kangta's website is now gone T_T
I'll try to learn more about raw scanning everyone, so please bear with it for now.
